PREFACE

TO

THE SECOND EDITION.

The "SHILLING PEERAGE" was projected in order to meet a popular want. Until this publication was commenced, cheap and comprehensive manual of the kind had appeared at a price which placed within the reach of the middle class that information with respect to the aristocracy of Great Britain, which is so necessary in the every-day business of life. At the time of its appearance, the Editor ventured to express a hope that it would be found in some degree to meet an acknowledged want, and that it would accordingly receive its share of popular approbation and encouragement.

In that hope the Editor has not been disappointed, it may be allowed to judge from the opinions unanimously expressed by the public press, and the unprecedented sale of the work: and now in sending forth a Second Edition of the "Shilling Peerage," the Editor begs to thank those numerous correspondents who have forwarded to him their corrections and to assure the public that though space has been gained by abbreviations in printing, considerable additions have been made to its contents, and that it omits no important fact contained in its predecessor. He would especially draw attention to the list of Peers deceased during the present year, the Tables of Precedence, neither of which have appeared before, as likely to add to the usefulness of this little work.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

THE House of Lords or Peers (for the terms are used indifferently) is the second of the three estates of the Realm, which together compose the British legislative body—King (or Queen), Lords, and Commons. Its origin, which in fact is that of the British Parliament, is involved in obscurity. The House of Lords must be regarded as the natural development of the state of things existing under the Feudal System, when the King ranked as but “primus inter pares,” the first among his Peers or equals,* namely, the nobles who held their lands of the Crown by the tenure of military service. The very existence of the term “landlord,” as used in the present time, is enough to show that in the earlier days of English history the ideas of territorial possession and nobility were closely connected; and we find, as a matter of fact, that it was the tenure of certain lands which constituted a Noble of the Realm in the centuries immediately succeeding the Norman Conquest.

The House of Lords, however, is of even older date than this, and has been traced by antiquarians and historians to the very earliest foundations of the British constitution, which were laid in the old Saxon times. It is, in fact, the magnum concilium of the early En-been identified with the Count* (Comes) of Western Europe. The title of Viscount, which originally signified the Count's deputy, was first made a degree of honour in the reign of Henry VI.

* A singular instance of this equality between the Sovereign and the members of the English Peerage is to be found in the fact, that previous to the reign of Henry VIII. the daughters of both King and Peer were designated by the same title of “Lady.” Thus the daughters of Henry VII. were styled the “Lady” Margaret, and the “Lady” Mary. The title of Princess was only gradually adopted; the daughters of Henry III. being occasionally styled the Lady Mary and the Lady Elizabeth.

The Peerage† of Great Britain and Ireland admits also of the following classification:—1st, Peers of England; i.e., those whose titles bear date anterior to the union with Scotland in 1707; of whom the Duke of Norfolk, as Earl of Arundel (circ. 1139), is premier. 2nd, Peers of Scotland; i.e., those enjoying the Peerage in that country before its union with England; of whom the Duke of Sutherland as Earl of Sutherland and Baron Strathnaver (1228), is the premier. 3rd, Peers of Ireland; i.e., created before the Union in the year 1800: of whom the Earl of Howth, as Baron of Howth (1177), is the most ancient. 4th, Peers of Great Britain; i.e., those created between the years 1707 and 1800. 5th, Peers of the United Kingdom; i.e., those created since the union of the three kingdoms. And 6th, those of the Episcopal Bench; now consisting of the two Archbishops and twenty-four English and tion, that "though the titles of Duke and Earl may be traced to an age antecedent to the extinction of the Saxon dynasties, yet a long period elapsed after the Conquest before any other degrees of nobility than that of Baron and Knight were established in England." This, however, though generally, was not universally the case; for we read of Earls of Gloucester, Cornwall, Pembroke, Albemarle, Leicester, &c., in the reigns of King John and Henry III. It might be added, that the titles of Baron and Knight were common to England and continental nations.

* The Earl, or Count as he was more frequently called after the Norman Conquest, held jurisdiction (something like our Lord Lieutenants) over a certain territory of larger or smaller extent, which was hence called a County. This term still remains, though the relation between the district and its Count has long ceased. In course of time the old Saxon title of "Earl" prevailed again, and until the last two centuries has generally been derived from some particular locality.

† Much of the substance of what follows is taken from Whittaker's "Educational Almanac."

Welsh Bishops, and one Archbishop and three Bishops of Ireland in annual rotation.* Previous to the Reformation, the Spiritual Peers consisted of two Priors and twenty-seven Abbots, in addition to the Bishops, who at that time considerably outnumbered the Temporal Peers. The Spiritual Peers now consist of all English and Welsh Bishops, with the exception of the Junior Bishop for the time being.† The Bishops of London and Durham, by virtue of a statute passed 31 Henry VIII., and the Bishop of Winchester, as Prelate of the Order of the Garter, rank before all other Bishops. The Bishop of Meath takes precedence of the other Irish Bishops, who follow in the order of their consecration. The Bishop of Sodor and Man ranks next, and has a seat, but no vote, in the Upper House. In the House of Lords, all Peers of England have seats and votes; so have those of Great Britain and the United Kingdom, though the locality from which their title is taken may be either Irish or Scotch.‡ It also frequently happens that Peers of England or of the United Kingdom hold a superior rank in the Peerages of Scotland or Ireland; in which case, though popularly known by the higher dignity, they still sit and vote in the House by their inferior rank. The Peers of Scotland and Ireland § have a place in the House only

* The Archbishops of Armagh and Dublin sit alternately from session to session; and the rotation of the Bishops' sees is as follows:—Ossory, Cork, Killaloe, Meath, Kilmore, Cashel, Tuam, Derry, Limerick, and Down.

† This exception, however, does not include the Prelates of London, Durham, and Winchester, who are always members of the House of Peers from the day of their consecration.

‡ Great care must be taken not to suppose that the locality always determines the Peerage to be English, Irish, or Scotch. Thus, though Farnham is in Hampshire, Lord Farnham is an Irish Peer; while, singularly enough, Macduff, Earl of Fife—a name certainly well known in the annals of Scotland—enjoys an English and an Irish Peerage, but not a Scotch one.

§ Irish Peers may sit in the Lower House for British constituencies; Scotch Peers also may represent a county or borough in England; see Preface to the Shilling House of Commons.

for their representatives, of which Ireland sends twenty-eight and Scotland sixteen. The Scotch Representative Peers are chosen with every new Parliament; the Irish Representative Peers are elected for life. Peers of Scotland are no longer created; but on the extinction of three Irish Peerages, the Queen has the power to create a new one, which is to rank among the English titles according to the date of its creation.

By the Act of Union, no Peer enjoying a British dignity can be elected a Representative Peer for Ireland; but in the case of a Representative Peer being elevated to that of the United Kingdom, no vacancy is caused thereby. Scotch Peers take precedence of British Peers of the same rank created since the union with Scotland; and Irish Peers created before the union with Ireland, in like manner take precedence of British Peers created since. Irish Peers of later creation than the Union, rank, according to the dates of the patent, among the Peers of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

It should be observed that the House of Peers, properly speaking, consists only of such members of Peerage as, otherwise having a right to sit in the House, are neither minors nor insane.

A few of the eldest sons of Peers sit in the House of Lords by a different title from their title of courtesy. At present there are two of this class,—Earl Bruce and Viscount Enfield.

In the following list of the House of Peers, the date of creation prefixed to each name applies simply to the present title, and not to the period when the family name was first associated with the Peerage. Thus, the existing Dukedom of Northumberland was granted in 1766; although the name of Percy for centuries before (A.D. 1299) enjoyed a distinguished place in the roll of the nobility.

L O N D O N :

ROBERT HARDWICKE, 26, DUKE STREET,

PICCADILLY;

AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

NEW MAGAZINE, SIXPENCE MONTHLY.

"THE IDLER,"

Magazine of Fiction, Belles Lettres, News, and Comedy.

EDITED BY EDWARD WILBERFORCE.

It seems to the Promoters of THE IDLER, that all our popular literature has been too timid of late. That the satirical element has been strangely idle, and with the saddest results, that (oddly enough) in this age of cheap literature, most magazines are dear, and, when everybody reads, most magazines are unreadable. But the time has come to treat the old corruptions of the world with the old weapons, and to prepare for the enemies of truth and justice a rod pickled in classic brine. For this THE IDLER has been started. It is hoped that it will prove at once cheap and excellent,—cheap, not as dirt is cheap, but as flowers are.

Perfect independence—perfect fearlessness—the liveliness which makes reading pleasant—and the picturesqueness which makes it human and genial:—these are the qualities to which they aspire.

Among the contents of THE IDLER will be found a new Tale, by the Author of "Singleton Fontenoy," "Eustace Conyers," "Satire and Satirists," &c., &c.

Short Tales, Essays, and Sketches, by writers already known in the field of periodical literature.

Portraits of the Living and Dead.

Notes on Men and Things; Topographical and Antiquarian.

Reviews of Books, Résumé of the Events of the Month, Obituary of eminent Persons, &c.

All Communications, Books for Review, Advertisements, &c., should be forwarded to the Editor of THE IDLER, care of Mr. Hardwicke, Publisher, 26, Duke Street, Piccadilly.

Half of the Premiums for whole-life Assurances may remain unpaid for the first five years, or one-third during the whole of Life.

Example of Infant Endowment Table :—If £32. 19s. 11d. be deposited before a child is twelve months old, £100 will be paid on its reaching 21, and if it die before 21, all the money deposited will be returned ; or, instead of paying down £32. 19s. 11d. at once, £3. 2s. 5d. may be deposited annually, on the same terms. All the money deposited will be returned on demand after five years, one year's premium only being deducted.

Full Prospectuses may be had on application.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament.

PATENT ASPHALTE FELT FOR ROOFING,

PATRONIZED BY

Her Majesty's Woods and Forests; the Ordnance Department; the Royal Agricultural Society of England; the Leeds and Manchester, the London and North Western, the Liverpool and Manchester, the Chester and Holyhead, the Norfolk, and other Railways; the Corporation of the City of Edinburgh; the Duke of Buccleuch; the Marquis of Anglesea; the Marquis of Westminster; the Birkenhead Dock Company; the Dock Trustees of Liverpool; most of the Nobility, Gentry, and Agriculturists; and many members of the Royal Agricultural Societies of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

The FELT has been extensively used, and pronounced efficient, and particularly applicable for warm climates. 1. It is a non-conductor. 2. It is portable, being packed in rolls, and not liable to damage in carriage. 3. It effects a saving of half the timber usually required. 4. It can be easily applied by any unpractised person. 5. From its lightness, weighing only about 42lbs. to the square of 100 feet, the cost of carriage is small.

UNDER SLATES, IN CHURCH OR OTHER ROOFS, the Felt has been extensively used to regulate the temperature.

INODOROUS FELT,

For damp walls, and for damp floors, under carpets and floor-cloths; also

BUTLER'S
TASTELESS SEIDLITZ POWDER, IN ONE BOTTLE.

THIS useful aperient preparation, besides forming an equally efficient and far more agreeable draught than that produced by the common Seidlitz Powders, is made in much less time, and with infinitely less trouble. To allay fever or thirst, a teaspoonful in water forms a most refreshing Saline Draught. Being inclosed in a bottle, it will remain uninjured by humidity during the longest sea voyage or land journey.

Sold at 2s. 6d. the bottle (which is inclosed in a case, and accompanied by measure and spoon), by the preparers.

BUTLER'S
TARAXACUM or DANDELION COFFEE.

THIS truly wholesome and agreeably flavoured beverage contains "the full medicinal properties of the dandelion, which are most skilfully and delicately preserved in this preparation of the root of that vegetable." The medical faculty have for years past used and recommended this dietetic article for the cure of affections of the liver, kidneys, and digestive organs, the symptoms of which are exhibited in forms more familiarly known as bile, dyspepsia or indigestion, loss of appetite, flatulency, or debility of the stomach. In promoting a healthy secretion of bile, &c., it may be employed with great advantage. Sold in Tin Canisters, at 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d.

BUTLER'S POMMADE DIVINE.

An elegant and most efficacious application for chapped hands and lips, burns, scalds, sore nipples, accidental excoriations and roughness of the skin, occasioned by sea-bathing, exposure to the sun or inclement weather. In glasses, 2s. 9d. —Ask for 'BUTLER'S Pommade Divine.'
